Subject to Confirmation of the Senate, &c. The Board of Education, consisting of the Governor, the Attorney-General, and the Superintendent of Public Instruction, met yesterday and ap-pointed a number of superintendents of schools for counties and cities, the terms of their office to commence July 1, 1886, except those appointed to fill vacancies, who go into office upon

The Senate passed a joint resolution construing the Constitution as vacating the offices of all superintendents of schools on July 1st. The resolution is now pending in the House, and not until some final action is taken by the latter body will themames of the regular appointees for the counties and cities be sent in to the Senate for con-

Yesterday morning at lifteen minutes past 7 o'clock Mr. John B. Brauer, son of Mr. F. C. Brauer, died at his residence, 2100 Venable street. Mr. Brauer was only twenty-five years old, and was a most estimable and promising young man. He graduated with high honors in the class of 1881 at the Virginia Military Institute. His untimely death leaves his family and friends in deep grief, by whom he was held in the kindliest esteem and regard. The following cases were disposed of yesterday : Morris Robinson (colored), charged with cruelly beating his mule. Fined Magruder Burke, charged with being drunk and attempting to strike George Bannister with a glass. Fined $10 and surety for his good behavior required in the sum of $200 for twelve months. Marshall Jackson, drunk. Fined $2. Samuel Lipscomb (colored), charged with fighting in the street. Fined $5.

Pinkey alias Mary Frances Barker colored), charged with felony. Sent on to the grand jury of the Hustings Court March 1, 1886. No bail allowed. Electing the Judges in Classes,

There is another subject upon which we have received a number of letters since the last issue of the Journalviz., the proposed constitutional amendments providing for the election of all the judges of the State in classes. Some of these letters were from lawyers who would be recognized everywhere as among the leaders of the Virginia bar. and they speak in unqualified approval of the proposed scheme, and urge its passage by the Legislature. We make the following extract from one of them, which will serve as a sample : " Your timely and earnest article favoring the provision for electing the judges in classes seems to be bearing fruit, as I see that the Senate committee has reported favorably," &c. Since our former article was written the bill has been reported favorably by the Senate Judiciary Committee, and we may say that the chances for its passage by both houses are now much more favorable. We repeat what we have before said, that the bill ought to be passed. It would be a most grievous error to fail in this. It is entirely unnecessary to reiterate the many and obvious advantages of the scheme, and to repeat that they are so weighty and conclusive that, so far as we are inroom on the 18th and 19th February. formed, not a single objection has been made to it; certain it is that no argument can be made against the principle upon which it proceeds. In one particular, however, we would like to see the bill amended. It provides that judges elected to fill vacancies shall be elected for a full term. This seems to us to be a departure from the principle which will almost certainly lead in time to confusion, and might even de feat one of the prime objects of the scheme-viz., to prevent any changes in party politics from interfering to any considerable degree with the judiciary. If, on the other hand, elections to fill If, on the other hand, elections to fill vacancies are only for the unexpired terms, it will always be known beforehand that at fixed periods a given number of terms will fall in, and that each legislature will elect a given number of judges. It seems hardly probable, however, that this objection (if such it be) could have escaped the framers of the bill, or the Sanate committee, and there may be some controlling reases for the other view.— lirginia have for the other view.— lirginia have
